

Bishop Stephen Lowe

Bishop Lowe was the Bishop of Hulme, Manchester until his retirement in 2009. In 2006, he was appointed the Church of England's first Bishop for Urban Life and Faith and served as the Archdeacon of Sheffield for 11 years.

Bishop Lowe is a keen writer and broadcaster on the BBC, debating issues and reviewing the papers. He has a full understanding of the effects that mental health problems can have on the individual and surrounding loved ones. He is a keen supporter of Mental Health Research UK in promoting research into this area.