

David Pugh, Trustee and Hon Treasurer

David Pugh is a taxation consultant specialising in all aspects of personal taxation. He began his career with the Inland Revenue in 1965 before joining Peat Marwick Mitchell & Co in 1970. He became assistant tax manager in the personal tax department in 1981. In 1987 the firm joined forces in the first mega-merger of larger accountancy firms and formed Peat Marwick McLintock before being renamed KPMG in 1995.

In 1996 after nearly 27 years he was asked to become the personal tax manager of the Nottingham office of Neville Russell later to become Mazars a position he held until setting up his own practice Robertson Pugh & Co in 2008 at the age of 60 despite also being actively involved on a day to day basis in an investment property business. Robertson Pugh & Co is already well established with an extremely diverse range of clients including high net worth individuals, family owned businesses, non residents and trusts.

His work has for over 45 years related to all aspects of personal taxation but he also has a wide experience of probate work and acts as an Attorney for many Enduring Power of Attorney cases. David became a Trustee in March 2011.
